STATE OF MICHIGAN,
ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
Lansing, December 31, 1875.

To Honorable JOHN J. BAGLEY, Governor of the State of Michigan :

I have the honor herewith to submit the Annual Report of this office commencing on the first day of January, 1875, and ending this day, including a period of twelve months.

Cases argued and submitted at the January term of the Supreme Court, A. D. 1875.

At the January term of said Supreme Court, the case of John W. Hulin et al. vs. The People was argued and submitted. This case was error to the Jackson Circuit. The case was argued by Hon. Isaac Marston for the People. Hulin and the other defendants, plaintiffs in error, who were sureties on his bond, were sued in the Jackson county Circuit Court on their official bond as clerk of the State Prison, for alleged frauds and defalcations. It was contended below by the defendants that the bond should have been prosecuted by the agent of the State Prison, which claim was founded upon the provisions of the statute.—Compiled Laws, Sec. 8072. Judgment was obtained against the defendants below, and they brought error to the Supreme Court. The court held that under the statute above referred to, and by such regulations as have been lawfully made in pursuance thereof, the dealings of the clerk with the prison funds were not in the course of his duties as such officer. That the statute clearly implied that all the money should be received and paid out by the agent; that the agent cannot lawfully be released from his responsibilities, and that none of his statutory powers can be transferred to the clerk; and that if the agent allowed the clerk to receive and pay out money out of his presence and personal control, it would not be the official act of the clerk, and that therefore the clerk and the sureties to his bond were not holden on said bond for the moneys so paid out by the clerk. The judgment was reversed and a new trial ordered.

Thomas W. Hamilton was indicted in the Eaton Circuit and convicted for the offense of obtaining property under false pretenses. Error was brought to this court and the writ was dismissed at the January term for want of prosecution.

At the same term, the case of Orville Reed plaintiff in error vs. The People, was argued and submitted. This case was error to the Saginaw Circuit. Reed was indicted for murder and convicted in the court below of manslaughter.

A number of objections were made to the proceedings below. The court sustained the objections, reversed the judgment and ordered a new trial.

At the same term the case of The People vs. William Nugent was argued and submitted. William Nugent was convicted in the Wayne Circuit for stealing sheep. A bill of exceptions was settled before judgment, and the case brought to the Supreme Court. A number of objections and exceptions were made to the rulings of the court below on the trial of the cause. The court set aside the verdict and ordered a new trial.

At the same term the case of The People ex rel. Myron Coon vs. The Plymouth Plank Road Company was heard. This was quo warranto. The case was decided against the Company.

At the same term the cases of The People vs. Henry D. Smith and the Morgan Iron Company; and The People vs. Richard S. Thomas et al. were argued and submitted. These suits were instituted by Hon. Isaac Marston in the Circuit Court for the county of Ingham, to set aside certain sales of public lands said to be fraudulent. The Circuit Court in Chancery for said county of Ingham sustained the complainants, and a decree was obtained in each case. Both cases were appealed to the Supreme Court.

In the case of The People vs. Thomas et al., the decree below ordered the purchase price paid for said lands to be refunded in scrip. But as the information treated the purchase by Thomas as made for cash, and asked no relief on any other basis, the court held that this was erroneous and modified the decree requiring the price to be refunded in money, but affirmed the decree in all other respects. In the other case, The People vs. Smith et al., the decree below was affirmed in all respects. The decree required the defendants to re-convey the land within sixty days or else the people should cause the decree of the court below to be recorded in the county in which the land was situated, which should operate as a conveyance, and I caused copies of the decree to be recorded as therein directed.

At the same term a motion was made for an amended return in the case of The People ex rel. Wm. L. Clark vs. The Board of Supervisors of Ingham County. An order was made requiring the supervisors to examine the claim of said Clark at their October session.

At the same term, an application was made by William T. Underwood for a writ of habeas corpus. The petitioner was tried in the Recorder's Court of the city of Detroit for murder and acquitted on the ground of insanity. The Recorder's Court, in pursuance of the statute (Comp. Laws, sec. 7957), committed him to the State Prison until further order, and he was then confined in the insane asylum attached to the State Prison. Underwood's counsel applied for habeas corpus, alleging the law unconstitutional. The court decided that the question must be raised by writ of error and not by habeas corpus. Writ denied.

April Term, 1875.

At the April term of the Supreme Court, 1875, the case of Charles D. Bronson, plaintiff in error, vs. The People, was argued and submitted. Bronson was informed against in the Circuit Court for the county of Mecosta for an assault with intent to murder. He was convicted in the court below and brought his case to the Supreme Court by writ of error. The two main causes of error assigned by the plaintiff in error were, first, that two jurors were accepted and sworn to try the cause whose examination disclosed the fact that they were disqualified by reason of having previously formed and expressed opinions in the case, and second, that the court, at a previous term, had directed the sheriff to summon fifty jurors in addition to the regular panel for the term at which the trial took place, contending that the court could only require twenty-five additional jurors to be so summoned, and that seven of the jurors so summoned were upon the panel by which he was tried. No objection was taken to the action of the court in either particular until after conviction. The Supreme Court held that, as the facts were known to the defendant, he was bound to object to the proceedings on the trial in both instances. That by not objecting he waived any irregularity there might have been in the case, and that it was too late to object after the trial. The judgment in this case was affirmed.

At the same term, the case of Benjamin McKinney, plaintiff in error vs. The People, error to Kent Circuit, was submitted on briefs. McKinney was informed against under the statute, section 7596 of Compiled Laws of 1871, for the offense of maliciously destroying personal property, and convicted. The information alleged that the defendant maliciously injured and destroyed a harness of the value of fifty dollars by cutting the reins. It was contended by the defendant below that the damage done to the harness did not exceed five dollars; that the information was for injury and not destroying the harness; that the offense really charged was within the exclusive jurisdiction of justice's court, and that the plaintiff in error could not be tried at all in the circuit court for the offense set out in the information. The court held that the information was a good information for the destruction of property of the value of fifty dollars, and therefore affirmed the judgment.

At the same term, the case of Joseph McNamee, Jr., impleaded with Joseph McNamee, plaintiff in error, was argued and submitted. Error to Genesee Circuit. Plaintiff in error was convicted of the offense of unlawfully disintering a human body. In this case the question was as to the sufficiency of the information. The information, after setting forth all the allegations, as required by section 7711 of the Compiled Laws, also contained an allegation not required by the statute, namely, that the act of taking the body was done for the purpose of dissection and with the intent to sell the body for gain and profit. It was contended by the plaintiff in error that this additional clause shows the act to have been a common-law misdemeanor and not a felony, and that the statutory punishment could not be inflicted under such an information. The court held that the statute having described the offense and prescribed the punishment, the statutory remedy is to be pursued; that the statute supersedes the common law and covers all cases, and that the point was not well taken; that it does not vitiate an information to include allegations which do not change the offense charged, but which only make its description more definite. It was also contended that the information should negative the possibility of leave having been granted by any board of health of any place, or any other officers that may grant the use of bodies for dissection under the statutes of 1867 and the amendments thereto in 1871. The court held that those statutes do not refer to bodies already buried, but only to such as are required to be buried at public expense, unless so disposed of. The judgment in the case was affirmed.

At the same term of said court, the case of Simeon Gregg vs. The People was argued and submitted. This case was error to the Wayne Circuit. Gregg was informed against for larceny and was convicted. The record failed to show any arraignment of the prisoner or any plea filed by him or entered by the court. The court held that an arraignment and plea were absolutely required, and that the record should show affirmatively that they had been done; that if there was no arraignment there was no issue to be tried; that the pretended trial was a nullity. The sentence and conviction in this case was set aside, and the prisoner remanded to the sheriff to be arraigned upon the information.

At the same term the case of Wm. T. Underwood, plaintiff in error, vs. The People was argued and submitted. This case was a writ of error to the recorder's court of Detroit. Underwood was informed against for the crime of murder, and was acquitted on the ground of insanity, and was confined in the insane hospital attached to the State prison at Jackson, in pursuance of act No. 168 of the session laws of 1873. The alleged error in the cause was that the act above referred to is unconstitutional and void. The court held the law to be unconstitutional upon several grounds, all of which it is unnecessary for me to repeat here. One of said grounds was that the law made no provision for the discharge of the prisoner if he became sane, and therefore he might be subject to imprisonment indefinitely, and that after he had become sane. Other features of the act were also declared unconstitutional. The judgment was set aside and the prisoner discharged.

At the same term of the court the case of The People of the State of Michigan ex rel. Attorney General vs. The Lake Superior Ship Canal Railroad and Iron Company was argued and submitted. In this case an information in the nature of a quo warranto was filed by the Attorney General to determine the right of the respondent corporation to collect the tolls on the Portage Lake Ship Canal. The question to be determined was who should have control of said canal after its completion. The court decided in favor of the respondents.

June Term, 1875.

At the June term of the Supreme Court, 1875, the case of The People vs. Burt, exceptions to Genesee Circuit, was submitted to the court. No argument was made on the part of the State. The defendant was informed against in the statute form for murder. He was tried upon the information, and the proof showed that death resulted from an abortion produced upon the deceased. The objection to the information contained the same points as the case of The People vs. Olmstead, which was decided on the grounds that the information did not sufficiently apprise the defendant of the nature of the offense charged against him. The case was referred back to the Circuit Court, with instructions that no judgment could be entered on the verdict. At the same term of the court the case of The People vs. Walter Clark was argued and submitted. Clark was convicted in the Calhoun Circuit of the offense of seduction. A bill of exceptions was taken and the case brought to this court. There were a great many objections and exceptions to the rulings of the court on the trial of the cause, the principal one of which is the introduction of evidence of several different acts of intercourse. The case has not yet been decided. It will undoubtedly be decided at the January term, 1876.

October Term, 1875.

At the October Term of the Supreme Court for 1875, the case of Andros B. Keator vs. The People was argued and submitted. This was error to the Ingham Circuit. Keator was convicted of the crime of perjury. A number of assignments of error were made by the plaintiff in error. Some of the errors assigned were that testimony was introduced to impeach a witness who had no fixed place of residence, as appeared by the testimony, by evidence showing what his character was some three or four years previous at his former residence, and that the witness was asked if he would believe the witness under oath. The court held that as the witness had shown by his own testimony that he had lived but a short time in any one place, it was not improper to allow a larger range of inquiry than would be proper where there had been a continuous residence in one place, and held further, that it was proper on direct, as well as cross examination, to allow the question whether he would believe the witness under oath. It was also objected that the information alleged the oath of Keator to have been taken and sworn to by and before the court, when the evidence showed that the deputy clerk administered the oath, and that the deputy clerk could not administer the oath; or, that if he could, there must be other evidence than the deputy's own oath that he was such, and that he was acting as such. The court held that as the deputy was acting as clerk openly in court, that was sufficient evidence of his being such deputy clerk; and, as such, authorized to administer the oath. The judgment was affirmed. At the same term the case of the Jackson Mining Company, complainants, vs. The Auditor General, was argued and submitted. The company was taxed by the Auditor General for the years 1868, 1869, 1870 and 1871, in accordance with the provision of an act imposing a specific tax upon corporations engaged in the business of mining, smelting, and refining ores in this state, approved March 10th, 1865. The company filed a bill in the Marquette Circuit Court in chancery, and obtained an injunction. The bill was demurred to, the demurrer was sustained, and the bill dismissed. The company appealed to the Supreme Court. The only question was the validity of the act under which the assessment was made. The Supreme Court decided the act was in violation of the constitution of the United States. The decree dismissing the bill was reversed and the case sent back for further proceedings, if the parties desire to do anything further in the matter.

At the same term, the case of Barney Youngblood et al. vs. Jared A. Sexton, sheriff of Wayne county, was argued and submitted. Although the people were not a party to the suit, yet the questions involved were such as to make the State interested in the result, so that the Attorney General appeared for the defense. The complainants filed a bill to restrain the defendant from proceeding to collect certain taxes imposed upon them by virtue of act No. 228 of the Session Laws of 1875. The court below sustained the levy and the complainants appealed to the Supreme Court. The question was as to the constitutionality of this act. No objection was made by the defense as to the jurisdiction or right of the complainants to enjoin the payment of a personal tax. The only question they desired to have decided was the constitutionality of the act. The court held that the collection of a mere personal tax could not be enjoined. But in view of the importance of the case they also proceeded to decide as to the validity of the act.

The complainants contended the act was void, first, because the tax is a State specific tax; second, that it was void, because it was not equal and uniform in its operations; third, that if it was a local tax it was void, because the local authorities had no voice in its levy or collection; fourth, that the sheriff, who was not a township officer, was not authorized to collect town and village taxes; and fifth, that it was a license and therefore unconstitutional.

The court decided that the levy was not objectionable in any of these respects, and was therefore constitutional. The judgment of the court was affirmed.

A suit was commenced in 1874 by Charles L. Ortram et al. against John Larkin, county treasurer of Midland county, and Wm. Humphrey, Auditor General, to restrain the collection of certain taxes upon lands therein described. At the same time a suit was also commenced in said Midland County Circuit in chancery by the Jackson, Lansing & Saginaw R. R. Co., and a stipulation was made by the solicitors for the complainants and the then Attorney General that one suit should be tried, and that the other should abide the decision of the first. The first suit has been decided in favor of the complainants on the grounds of illegality of the assessments and a decree entered in both cases accordingly. In September last, at the request of Hon. S. S. Cobb, I commenced a suit against the Canada Southern & Detroit R. R. Co., and also at the same time one against the Chicago & Canada Southern R. R., under the statute, for not making their returns as required by the law, and suits were commenced in the Circuit Court for the County of Wayne. The reports of said roads were shortly thereafter received, and as it was claimed by the principal officers of the roads that reports had been made in due time but were not sent by inadvertence, I directed the prosecuting attorney of Wayne to dismiss said suits on payment of costs.

A suit has been commenced against Seth Rees, former treasurer of Houghton county, upon his bonds, for the amount due the State from him for the taxes of 1869 and 1870. Also upon the bonds of Alexander Gibson, former treasurer of Keweenaw county, for moneys due the State from him.

At the October term of the Supreme Court, 1875, an application was made by James T. Crawford, claiming to be treasurer of Presque Isle county, for an order requiring Ralph Ely, Auditor General, to show cause why a mandamus should not issue against him to require him to issue his warrant upon the State Treasurer for certain moneys claimed to be due to said county. The Auditor filed his answer to said order to show cause, and the applicants abandoned their application. The case of the Attorney General vs. Welcome Hyde and the N. W. R. R. Company, mentioned in the report of my predecessor, has been determined in favor of the complainants, and the sale of the lands was set aside and canceled. This suit was tried in the Ingham Circuit in chancery.

In January, 1874, the Pullman Palace Sleeping Car Company failed to make such a report as the Auditor General thought should be made of their gross receipts for the previous year. The law requiring such report was approved April 29th, 1873, and took immediate effect. The Auditor General thereupon assessed them according to the best of his ability, and the company appealed from his estimate. The company had already paid about $1,800 on their report, and the Auditor General assessed them so that the three per cent would amount to about $1,600 more. A stipulation of the facts was made by Mr. Seager, their attorney, and myself, which showed the amount of tax still due (if we could recover for the entire year) to be about $1,200. The case was argued and submitted to the court without a jury at the October term of the Ingham County Circuit Court, and the Court held that the company were not liable for the tax of three per cent upon any money received that year previous to the passage of the act, and gave the State a judgment of about $300. The case will be taken to the Supreme Court.

A number of informations have been filed in the name of the Attorney General, where the relief sought was of a public nature, which have been conducted by other counsel. There has also been several cases commenced in different counties against the county treasurer and Auditor General, to restrain the collection of taxes, which have been referred to the prosecuting attorneys of said counties. Some six or seven cases are now pending in the Supreme Court, which will be argued at the January term, 1876.

The amount of correspondence in this office is very large and constantly increasing. All letters which I deemed of sufficient importance I have filed in the office and are numbered, so that they can be found without any trouble. Where several letters relating to the same question have been received, all such have not been kept. I have kept and filed over four hundred letters which I have received upon legal propositions—some of them involving nice and intricate questions of law, requiring a great deal of work to answer correctly; perhaps one hundred more have been received which I did not think necessary to file. All opinions, unless an opinion had been previously given upon the same subject, have been copied and preserved in the office.

The reports of the prosecuting attorneys, so far as received, will be found in an appendix hereto.
